Nature of the Society. Its Aims and Goals

The Society's main aim is to further the understanding and appreciation of Oceanic art.

The Society's main focus is on the traditional art of Oceania but not to the exclusion of other traditional tribal art or the contemporary art of the indigenous people of Oceania and Australia.

The Society holds regular meetings throughout the year and publishes an informative newsletter.

Some of our events since our formation have been

- A lecture by Prof. Nicholas Thomas, on his book 'Oceanic Art - The Australian Perspective'.
- A talk by Dr Denis Dutton on 'Authenticity in Tribal Art'.

- The film 'Wow Ipits' with an introductory talk by the film's maker - Bill Leimbach.
- The launch of John Friede's book New Guinea Art by Bob Debus, NSW Minister for the Arts.
- An illustrated talk by Margaret Tuckson on the Pottery of Papua New Guinea.
- 'Collectors Choice' exhibition.
- 'Adorned' an exhibition of Pacific jewellery held jointly with the Macleay Museum, Sydney University.
- Shields of Oceania' exhibition.
- A book 'Shields of Melanesia' has been published.
- Future events are announced in our bi-monthly newsletter and on our website.
